

Accessibility Statement

At Quarto, we are committed to ensuring our content is accessible to the widest possible audience, including those with disabilities. This commitment reflects our values of inclusivity, diversity and equal opportunities, and our belief that everyone should have access to the pleasure of reading and learning.

How we are improving accessibility

Most of our titles are available as a printed book and as an eBook. Our printed books are designed with clarity and legibility in mind to support diverse reading needs.

Our reflowable eBooks are easy to navigate, have a logical reading order and hyperlinked contents and indexes (where included). We are excited that from June 2025 onwards, most of our newly published eBooks will include image descriptions, making our content even more inclusive for readers using assistive technologies.

For readers requiring alternative formats, we are happy to discuss options to meet specific requirements.

Our Website

We are working toward meeting WCAG 2.1 AA standards to ensure our website is accessible and easy to use for all visitors, including those using assistive technologies. While we are not fully compliant yet, we are actively reviewing and improving our site to close the gaps and enhance accessibility.

Looking Ahead

Accessibility is an ongoing journey, and we are committed to continuous improvement. We aim to expand our accessibility efforts, including reformatting older publications where viable.

Feedback and Assistance

We welcome your feedback on the accessibility of our publications and website. If you encounter any accessibility barriers or have specific needs, please let us know.
